Webcasting Allows Residents to View Live West Valley City Council Meetings

West Valley City – After several years of planning and weeks of testing, West Valley City is excited to announce that live City Council Meetings may now be viewed online. This new service is the latest in a series of improvements to West Valley City's website, which was updated just over a year ago to include email notifications, online forms, simple navigation updates, virtual City tours, and Twitter feeds.

"This addition to our website takes government transparency to a whole new level in West Valley City," says Director of Public Relations Aaron Crim. "Those who are unable to attend the regularly scheduled City Council meetings are now able to attend virtually from the comfort of their own home."

In addition to live webcasting, the City Council meetings are also broadcast live on the City's government access cable television station, Comcast Channel 17. Council meeting video will also be archived online and will be viewable for up to five weeks.

To view live West Valley City Council meetings, visit www.wvc-ut.gov/webcast or tune in to Comcast Cable Channel 17. City Council meetings are regularly scheduled for the first four Tuesdays of every month at 6:30 p.m.
